TREE PEONIES

Extraordinary Offer of Large,
Heavy Specimens, Ten to Fifteen Years Old

Announcement of an Unusual Purchase

BERTRAND H. FARR
WYOMISSING NURSERIES CO.

WYOMISSING, PENNSYLVANIA

WING to the vicissitudes of the European War, the old-established and well-known firm of Brochet & Son, successors to the famous Paillet Nurseries, Chatenay, France, have been obliged to dispose of their entire stock of tree peonies, for which their firm has long been especially noted, winning grand prizes at all the expositions during the past fifty years.

As it has long been my ambition to make tree peonies one of my leading specialties, I have taken advantage of this opportunity and purchased their

ENTIRE COLLECTION of MOTHER PLANTS

Mother plants are the large STOCK PLANTS, which Brochet & Son used as the source of their supply of grafts or cuts for the propagation of the young plants for general sale. They range in age from ten to fifteen years.

This collection contains 238 varieties and upwards of 2000 specimens. I shall reserve one each of the 238 varieties to plant in my own specimen garden. The balance will be planted in the nursery and from which I will propagate young stock for sale.

Extra heavy specimens like these have rarely been offered for sale in Europe and never in this country. It would be difficult to fix a value on plants of this character, but if they were purchased in this country, they would be worth not less than $25.00 each.

I am offering to those who are especially interested in obtaining specimen tree peonies for immediate effect, a portion of this stock for immediate fall delivery, at a price to cover the approximate cost of importation, namely :

Large specimens, 10 years and upwards, $10.00 each.

Extra heavy specimens at $12.50 each.

The very largest specimens at $15.00 each.

As there are only a few plants each of many of the varieties, orders will be filled strictly in the rotation received; therefore, in making a selection, it would be well to mention a second choice.

The demand for tree peonies, always greater than the supply, has greatly increased the last few years, as people are just beginning to realize their wonderful beauty. In their original home in China and Japan, they are known as HWA-WANG or "King of Flowers." They bloom a month earlier than the ordinary herbaceous peony. Each year instead of dying to the ground, they form a woody growth, eventually becoming a bushy shrub from 5 to 6 feet high, producing their immense, strikingly-beautiful blooms, sometimes a foot in diameter, in great profusion.

There are color schemes in these tree peonies that are never found in the herbaceous sorts, such as bright, pure reds, brilliant scarlets, dark maroons and rich wine colors, besides the pure white with the golden stamen, pale violet, delicate blush and rose shades.

TREE PEONIES ARE PERFECTLY HARDY ANYWHERE

The difficulty has been to obtain them, being grafted on the wild stock which suckers so profusely. The ordinary gardener is not able to detect the difference between the foliage of the wild stock and the grafted.

These large, European-grown plants are

ALL ESTABLISHED ON THEIR OWN ROOTS THIS IS IMPORTANT

I have, of course, the regular-sized stock, which I have been selling at $2.00 to $5.00 each. These are described in our catalogue of "Hardy Plant Specialties," which also describes over 500 varieties of herbaceous peonies. If you do not already have this book, ask for a copy of
